

ONLY TOP-NOTCHERS TAKE BLUE RIBBONS

Many of Finest Horses of South at Manassas Show—Struggles for Awards Are Close Throughout Entire Day—Two Narrow Escapes From Accident.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Manassas, Va., July 28.—It took a winner to win at the Manassas Horse Show to-day. A horse, either in the jumping or driving classes, had to be a top notcher to carry off a blue ribbon, and so superb were some of the animals that it was difficult to picture a better. The struggle for the awards began with the opening of the show this morning and continued through the entire day. At no time during the entire day did the occupants of the grandstand, which was packed, seem to lose interest in what was going on in the show ring, and frequently, when the awards of the judges met with the approval of the vast throng, a mighty shout and tremendous hand-clapping would go up from the grandstand.

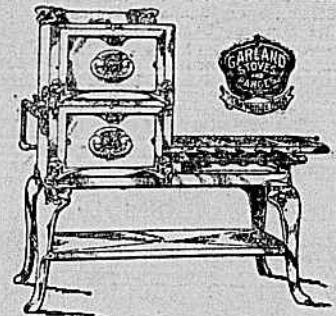

The show to-day was an exposition of some of the finest horseflesh of which the South can boast, and it has set a new record for the Virginia circuit. It is safe to say that a "classier" open air show has never been held in this State, and some of the judges and other well-known horsemen say that this year's show of the Manassas Horsemen's Association surpasses any recent exhibition of like kind that they have witnessed.

Class No. 24, for combination harness and saddle horses, started the fight for the blue ribbon this morning. In the class such horses as Silver King, Honorable, Lord Golden, Leading Lady and Kentucky Belle were competing. When the awards were made, Honorable, Lord Golden, Kentucky Belle and Silver King had captured first, second and third, respectively.

Hotly Contested Class. Class No. 25, for ladies' harness horses, was another very hotly contested class, and it was some time before the judges were sure which horse to give the blue ribbon. Miss Amy Dupont finally captured first and second, and E. L. Redmond & Co. third. In this class Colonel O'Bannon was driving Miss Dupont's entry, Alexandria, the colonel occupying the seat with Miss Dupont. Colonel O'Bannon is an expert with the lines, and was showing off the splendid animal to great advantage, when, in rounding the curved part of the show ring, he slipped from the seat of the runaway and fell heavily to the ground. Colonel O'Bannon was sitting on a raised seat, the edge of which was higher than the sidebars of the buggy seat, thus making it an easy matter to slip off the seat with the horse rounding the sharp curve at a good pace. Colonel O'Bannon retained his hold on the lines, and although he was unable to arise from the ground without assistance, he never once lost his head, but retained the horse under perfect control. The colonel was assisted to arise, and he apologized to Miss Dupont for his clumsiness and regained his seat in the vehicle. After trying out the entry for some time he awarded the horse that he was driving the first money.

Louis Leith Injured. What was thought at first to be a very serious accident occurred in the handicap jump, when Louis Leith, on St. Peter, was thrown heavily to the ground and for a while rendered unconscious. Mr. Leith's mount, which had taken the jump in good form, when directly in front of the grandstand bucked with his rider, taking him entirely by surprise, and throwing him a hard fall to the ground. Mr. Leith remained so still after striking the ground that it was for the moment feared that he had been killed. He was able to rise again in the afternoon. Among the more prominent people exhibiting at the horse show to-day were Mrs. Allen Potts, of Gordonsville; Miss Amy Dupont, of Wilmington, Del.; E. L. Redmond & Co., Middleburg; Blenheim Farm, Baltimore; Bowles Brothers, Millwood, and Dr. Shirley Carter, of Warrenton.

FIGHTING FOR PICTURES

Owner of Rights in Illinois Plans Appeal to Courts. Chicago, Ill., July 28.—In giving his opinion that the mayor and the chief of police had no right to stop the exhibition of the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures, Corporation Counsel Brundage cites the so-called "Book case," which was carried to the Supreme Court of Illinois, and in which, in writing the court's opinion, Chief Justice Cartwright declared that pictures depicting the adventures of the "James boys" and the activities of "night riders" were immoral.

Counsel A. J. Jones, who owns the Illinois rights to the pictures, yesterday declared that in all probability court proceedings would be instituted to-day to force the city officials to grant the permit.

Address by Bishop Kilgo. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Salisbury, N. C., July 28.—The Salisbury District Conference for the Methodist Church was opened here to-day with an address by Bishop John C. Kilgo. Dr. J. C. Rowe is presiding and a large number of delegates are in attendance. Rev. Plato Durham, of Concord, followed Dr. Kilgo to-night with a strong address.

Some Baseball Talk

By HALF NELSON.

After the many vicissitudes that can happen to a pitcher, Deacon Marsee came back yesterday afternoon and pitched one of the prettiest games ever seen here. For seven innings he had only to work before three men, and only one hit came during the whole game. There have been mighty few one-hit games this season, too. Although the strike-out column showed but three victims, the scratch column is filled, and there were men ready to get every scratch that came.

The Petersburg contingent yesterday afternoon waked things up in such a manner as has not been seen here for a long time. The visitors demonstrated the fact that there is very little real rooting done in the Richmond grandstand, and it was interesting to hear somebody with enthusiasm. It also seems that the Petersburg team is rather more than popular in Petersburg.

The addition of Bunting and Dobson to the Colt line-up has strengthened the team wonderfully. The newcomers appeared to have a little swagger about them when they first came, and considering the number of people that were there it is no wonder, but they have recovered and are going fine. Dobson covers first in a classy way. Yesterday he worked through a number of hard chances and did not make a slip. Bunting is the same way on third. Both got hits yesterday.

The base on balls that Morrissey gave in the first inning might have won the game if the Petersburgers hadn't slackened up in the next inning. With a man on the bases and a two-bagger coming up there is but one thing that can happen, and one run has won many games.

It would be a good idea if the managers of the Virginia League teams would make the players take the field and come from the field as if they had little time to spare. There is nothing that so gives the impression of slowness and lack of interest as the sight of nine men loafing out to their positions. And there is a whole lot in the team going to positions in a snappy manner. And all that impression can be made without much expenditure of energy.

It would have been an awful catastrophe if, in the second inning, Toner had thrown the ball straight to Putman. Titman thought Bunting had hit a fly to Toner and came back to first. He would have been caught as dead as a mackerel if Toner had not heaved the ball exactly where Putman could not get it.

One of the features of the game yesterday was the sight of two 250-pound policemen chasing a thirty-six-pound boy. The whole grandstand stood up and looked as the procession passed before the bleachers, and when the boy finally escaped in the crowd he was cheered.

For the first time in a long while the fans saw a game that was entirely free of kicks. And there were some close decisions, too. It has got so now that every game seems the stage setting for a young riot, and it has come to be expected. There is no necessity for it, and no use for it after it comes.

There is reason now to believe that Steve Griffin is madder than ever with the directors of the Danville Club for selling pitcher Fanwell. Fanwell won from St. Louis yesterday afternoon and incidentally allowed but four hits. An error by Lajoie brought in the only run that St. Louis made. Fanwell appeared last Saturday and out Philadelphia down to five hits, but lost on errors. Two errors let in two runs.

If he can keep the gait he is going now there will be no further difficulty lying in wait for him. Very little has been heard from Mayberry, who was sold to Cleveland at the same time that Fanwell went.

Semi-Annual Half-Price Sale!

Five Days of Unprecedented Values

Friday Saturday Monday Tuesday Wednesday

Twice each year we hold a Half-Price Sale, and these sales have become events of prime importance to Richmond clothing buyers. There are three reasons for these sales: First, a desire to close out our stocks that we may maintain our reputation of keeping every department fresh and clean, with no "leftovers" or undesirable merchandise at the end of the season; next, to tempt by means of extremely low prices more men to become acquainted with the excellence of J. & L. Clothing; lastly, a determination to turn a usually dull period into a busy one.

This sale will do full justice to all that previous J. & L. reductions have led you to expect—it is our regular stock. No "specials" hurriedly bought for sale purposes, no soiled or shopworn goods, but J. & L. QUALITIES, with goodness, worth and excellence stamped on every article.

Here's everything to wear for travel, for work, for business, for play, with reductions so radical as to appeal powerfully to every man with a single thrifty nerve in his body.

This sale lasts but five days, and will be a carnival of quick selling, so come early while stocks are at their best and range of selection greatest.
